Interested in gaining some experience in Trails/Wilderness? The Tiller Ranger District will be filling 2-3 Summer Internship positions. These positions will provide students with an opportunity to learn what is involved in managing a wide variety of trails and wilderness areas on Federal Lands and to provide work experience. Interns can expect a variety of work tasks including wilderness and trail monitoring, trail clearing and brushing, trail tread-improvements, education in and adherence to Trail Management Objectives (TMOs), partnership with volunteer organizations, wilderness patrols, regular public interaction, occasional overnight backpacking trips, and trail-sign maintenance. The focus this year will be on Wilderness Areas.

Starting and ending dates are flexible but must be between the middle of May through the end of September, housing and a stipend ($25/work-day) will be provided. Interested students should submit a letter of interest and a resume via email to Lance Sargent at lancesargent@fs.fed.us by April 6, 2018.

Location: The Tiller Ranger District, on the Umpqua National Forest is on the west side of the Cascade Mountains in SW Oregon. The forest is characterized by deeply incised canyons, moderate mountain elevations (less than 7,000 foot elevation), and includes the Rogue-Umpqua Divide Wilderness. The summers are generally hot and dry, although cool, rainy weather is possible at any time of year. The duty station is located in Tiller Oregon and is approximately 26 miles from the nearest services and 50 miles from the nearest sizeable city, (Roseburg, OR and Medford, OR). Interns may also work on the Diamond Lake Ranger District as needed.
